

COMMUNITIES IN CRISIS

More than half of Illinois cities get “F” grades for local pensions

Dekalb

2019 Grade: F

In 2003, Dekalb’s police, fire and municipal pension funds already faced a shortfall of $30.7 million. That meant every Dekalb household, on average, was on the hook for $2,368 in future taxes just to eliminate that shortfall.

Dekalb began contributing more money – taxpayer dollars – to pensions in an attempt to make the plans healthier. Over the next 16 years, city contributions increasingly crowded out spending for public safety, roads and other core services.

	2003	2019	Change
City (taxpayer) contributions to pensions	$1.36 million	$7.38 million	Up 5.4X
Share of city general budget for pensions	7.1%	19.4%	Up 2.7X

Despite the ramp-up in city payments over those 16 years, Dekalb’s pension debts didn’t decrease. Instead, they jumped by 3.4 times!

By 2019, the shortfall in Dekalb’s police, fire and municipal pension funds totaled $104.9 million. That means each Dekalb household, on average, is now on the hook for $6,769 in debt.

Everyone loses under Dekalb’s pension crisis:

Taxpayers are tapped out

Dekalb residents are paying more and more into a broken system. City taxpayers in 2019 contributed 5.4 times more to pensions than in 2003, yet city debts are 3.4 times larger.

Pension costs are devouring the city’s budget

Dekalb pension contributions have grown to consume 19.4% of the city’s budget, up from 7.1% in 2003. That’s crowded out spending on public safety, roads and other core services.

Dekalb worker retirement security is collapsing

The health of Dekalb’s local pension plans have worsened despite those increased taxpayer contributions. In 2003, the plans had 57.8% of the money they needed. By 2019, that had dropped to just 46.0%.

Dekalb’s crisis will only get worse

Dekalb has fewer active government workers available to help pay for a growing number of retirees. In 2003, there were 1.55 active workers for every pensioner. By 2019, there were 0.92 active workers per pensioner.
